As reflected on your invoice, your payment is allocated between registration or renewal fees to Yoga Alliance Registry and membership dues to Yoga Alliance. Because Yoga Alliance Registry is tax-exempt as a 501(c)(3) public charity, you may claim your payment to Yoga Alliance Registry as a tax-deductible charitable contribution for federal income tax purposes. Any additional donation to Yoga Alliance Foundation will also be a tax-deductible charitable contribution for federal income tax purposes. Because Yoga Alliance is a 501(c)(6) tax-exempt trade association, your payment to Yoga Alliance is not tax-deductible as a charitable contribution. You may, however, be able to deduct up to 84% of your dues payment as an ordinary and necessary business expense, which represents the portion of your dues that are not spent on lobbying activities. To the extent that Yoga Alliance engages in lobbying activities, under federal law, 16% of your dues payment to Yoga Alliance cannot be designated as deductible business expenses for 2015.
